

Living on a Farm

Hello! My name is Emma and I'm eleven years old. I have a younger brother, Josh, who's just five. I live with my family on a farm in the south west of England. I was born in London, but my parents moved to Devon when I was two. My brother was born here, in Northam. My father runs the farm and my mother is a vet. We've got lots of animals on our farm. Some of them are small, like ducks, chickens and rabbits, but others are big, like pigs, lambs, cows or horses.

I love living in the country. I don't mind getting up early every day and I'm usually awake at 6.30. I'm old enough to help my parents with the work on the farm. I love feeding ducks and chickens. It's not difficult at all. It takes me about a quarter of an hour to give them fodder every morning, but first I have breakfast myself. Sometimes I also help my dad milk the cows, especially at weekends. You have to be very gentle with them or they'll kick you.

My brother and I go to a local primary school. My mother always drives us to school and picks us up when lessons finish, at 3 o'clock. On Wednesdays I have a karate class so I go back home by bus. When I come back, I usually have a little snack and play with my brother for a while. Then, I do my homework and help my parents with the animals or in the garden. We usually have dinner at 7 o'clock and then I have time for myself. I often play computer games or watch TV. Before I go to bed, I always read for a while but not too long because I have to get up early.
